

Introductory of the Special Issue on 18th ICPP Zagreb 2025

Luka Janeš¹

The 18th International Conference on Philosophical Practice (ICPP) continued the tradition of holding conferences that began 32 years ago in Canada and America, initially organized by Ran Lahav and Lou Marinoff.

And which in its long history has spread throughout the world, in 2025 taking place in Zagreb, Croatia, organized by the Croatian Philosophical Practice Association.

The three-day conference brought together a total of 136 speakers from 38 countries, who held their dissemination in various modalities – plenary and shorter presentations, workshops, seminars and philosophical walks.

We are sharing some of the wealth of topics, methods and approaches presented during the conference in this special thematic issue, believing that the texts will contribute to the further spread of philosophical practice in the world, and inspire numerous practitioners and researchers to reflect and create new works.

Possibly presented at the upcoming, 19th ICPP gathering, which will be held in June 2027 in Helsinki, Finland.

¹Croatian Philosophical Practice Association, Zagreb; Email: luka.janes@ffrz.hr